

Going Back to You!

Promoting Home Dialysis and Transplant

Oct, 2020

Let's talk about Transplant fears!

Fear of organ rejection is the #1 fear according to the American Association of Kidney Patients' survey (2019). However, the rejection rate is getting much lower with advances of medicine and if you are religiously taking your medication as prescribed by your Transplant team. You can minimize the chance of rejection!

Are you worried about the health of a Living Donor after transplant? Most living donors will sustain their health and their life expectancy. The risk of developing kidney disease in the future is pretty much the same as the healthy people who never donated their organs. Don't hesitate to accept their generous offer!

Ask your team to help you overcome your fears and barriers. Ask your team to talk to Transplant recipients to learn from their experiences!
